TEACHER INSTRUCTIONS

Student Icebreaker Bingo

A no-prep, get-to-know-you game for the first days of school.

How to play

1. Give every student a board — all 30 boards are different, so nobody can copy.
2. Students move around the room and find a classmate who matches a square.
3. That classmate signs the square. One signature per person per board.
4. First to get five in a row — across, down or diagonal — calls "Bingo!"
5. Keep going until a few students fill a whole board.

Teacher tips

- Model one square first so students hear the question out loud.
- Rule that works: one signature per classmate — it forces them to meet everyone.
- Short on time? Play to a single line instead of a full board.
- Print the black & white version to save color ink — it's designed for it.
- Works for grades 2–8. Great for the first day, a new term, or a new student.
