

Conflict Resolution Scenario Games

Talk it out. Act it out. Solve it. Everyday school conflicts for grades 2-5.

PREVIEW

What's included

- 24 speech-bubble scenario cards in 4 sets: At Recess, In Class, With Friends, Group Work
- Solve-It Steps poster and I-Statement builder
- Which Strategy? match sheet + Size of the Problem sort
- Role-play sheet, exit tickets, suggested answers
- A projected discussion deck (PowerPoint, opens in Google Slides)
- Color and ink-saver B&W · US Letter and A4

Four ways to play

1. Whole class: project a scenario, talk it through the Solve-It Steps.
2. Small groups: draw a card, agree on a fair fix.
3. Role-play theater: act it wrong, freeze, replay it right.
4. Centers: the match sheet and the sort work independently.

What this preview shows: one scenario-card page and the Solve-It Steps poster, watermarked. The paid download has no watermarks, all 24 cards, every activity, and the discussion deck.

Scenario Cards: At Recess

Name: _____

Cut out the six cards. Draw one, read it aloud, and use the Solve-It Steps to find a fair fix.

At Recess

"That's MY ball! I had it first!"

Mia and Jordan both grabbed the last playground ball at the same time.

Talk it out: What could they do so both get to play?

Our fair fix:

At Recess

"You skipped me! I was next in line!"

Sam says Ava cut in front of them in the line for the slide.

Talk it out: What should Ava and Sam say to each other?

Our fair fix:

At Recess

"You're always the captain. It's not fair!"

Leo has picked the teams three days in a row.

Talk it out: How can the group make picking teams fair?

Our fair fix:

At Recess

"We were here first. This is our spot."

Two groups want the same bench at recess.

Talk it out: What is a fair fix for both groups?

Our fair fix:

At Recess

"You tagged me too hard! That hurt!"

During tag, Noah bumped Ruby harder than he meant to.

Talk it out: What should Noah do now?

Our fair fix:

At Recess

"Nobody ever picks my game!"

Every recess the group plays soccer, and Ella wants to play something else.

Talk it out: How can the group take turns choosing?

Our fair fix:

The Solve-It Steps

Name: _____

Five steps to fix a conflict on your own. Practice them until they are automatic.

1Cool down

Take a breath. Count to five. Calm body, calm words.

2Take turns talking

One person speaks at a time. No interrupting.

3Listen and repeat

Say back what you heard: "So you feel..."

4Think of fixes

Together, come up with two or three fair ideas.

5Pick one and shake

Choose the fairest fix, shake hands, move on.

The I-Statement Builder

Name: _____

Say how you feel without blaming. Fill the bubbles, then say it out loud.

I feel _____
when you _____ because _____ Could we _____ ?

Practice

Pick any scenario card and write the I-Statement the upset person could say:
