YOUR NAME

Fold along the dotted line so your name is hidden.

This is a print and cut resource. There are no slides and no editable file.

How the game works

1. Every student gets a slip and a detective sheet. Each slip has a starter on it, so nobody faces a blank page.
2. They finish the sentence with something true, write their name on the strip at the bottom, and fold that strip under so it is hidden.
3. Collect and shuffle the slips. There are no teams. Everyone plays for themselves.
4. Read one slip out loud, front only. Everyone writes one name on their own sheet.
5. Unfold the strip and read the name out. Everyone marks their own guess.
6. Hands up if you got it. That count decides the writer's Mystery Points.

When your own slip is read you stop guessing and start scoring. You are never sitting out, and because nobody shares a score with you, you can never help anyone. That is what makes the round honest: the answer is a person in the room, so no shared score can survive contact with them.

1 detective point for every slip you name correctly.

Read every slip in the same flat voice, or you give the writer away.

Two winners: Best Detective, and Most Mysterious.
