PREVIEW

What's included

- Version 1, with scoreboard (.pptm): Team 1 and Team 2 scores on every round, plus a final score slide
- Version 2, no scoreboard (.pptx): the same game, no macros
- 25 round slides, each with up to 8 answers worth 10 to 80 points
- Sound effects, music and a setup guide

How it plays

1. Split the class into two teams. Each team sends a player to the face off.
2. Read the question. The first hand up answers.
3. A top answer gives that team control of the round. They keep guessing, with 10 seconds to talk before each guess.
4. 3 wrong guesses and the other team gets one chance to steal the points.
5. The team with the highest score at the end wins!

Works in Microsoft PowerPoint on PC, or on Mac with Microsoft 365. It does not work in Google Slides or the PowerPoint mobile apps.
What this preview shows: one full round, the start and end slides, all 25 round slides, both versions, and the setup guide.

4. How to Play the Game

Divide the class into two groups, with each group competing against the other. Each group selects a representative to answer questions on behalf of the group.

The game starts with a face-off round. The teacher reads out the first question on the slide, and a representative from each team stands ready. The first student to raise their hand provides an answer.

If their answer is one of the top answers on the board, their team gets the opportunity to guess the other answers for that question. The team has 10 seconds to discuss and collaborate before each guess.

However, they are allowed only three incorrect guesses. After three wrong answers, the opposing team has a single chance to "steal points" by providing an answer still on the board. If they are correct, they take all the points for that round. If not, the first team earns the points.

To add points to a team, click the arrow at the top of the team player image.

Once every answer on a question has been provided, click on the next button to go to the next question.

The game continues with multiple rounds, and the team with the highest score at the end wins.

For the version with scoreboard, click on the scoreboard button on any question page to see an overview of the scores.

Note: Before starting the game, teachers should keep a handout with all the correct answers listed. This way, when a student gives an answer, the teacher can quickly check the handout to see if that answer is on the board. If it is, the teacher can then identify which number it is under and reveal that specific answer on the slide to the class.

5. Customize the Game

Click on slide 3 and enter your first question and answer (scroll up or down to find the question and the answers - both are on the same slide). Then go to the next slide and repeat.

If you have fewer than 8 answers, remove any extra answers and their corresponding shapes.

Begin the presentation. Play the game just like the TV show "Family Feud". (Rules explain in number 4.)

Download, open in PowerPoint, turn on macros for the scoreboard, type your questions, play.
